ABOUT THE AUTHOR

An avid collector of records for forty years, Jerry Osborne has also worked full-time as an author of record price guides and reference books since 1975.

In the twenty-six years since work began on his first Record Collector's Price Guide, the number of Jerry's published works on music far exceeds 200 – including 76 books and 152 periodicals. As busy as ever, he continues to produce several books per year.

Among other music-related ventures, Jerry has, since 1986, written the popular, weekly newspaper feature, Mr. Music. This entertaining and informative column answers readers' questions about music and records. (Mr. Music is syndicated nationwide by World Features Syndicate. An online edition is now available at www.jerryosborne.com/mr.music.htm.

The rest of Osborne's past is also saturated with music. Upon graduation from high school, he began a 14-year career in radio and television (1962–1976) as an announcer, or dee jay.

Over the years, Jerry founded and published three collectors news and marketplace magazines: Record Digest and Music World and the still-popular DISCoveries. In the mid-'80s, he began publication of The Osborne Report, a monthly newsletter covering new releases.

Osborne's influence and involvement in record collecting has been chronicled in virtually every major magazine and newspaper in the country: Reader's Digest, Life, The Wall Street Journal, USA Today, People Magazine, Esquire, Oui, National Enquirer, Money, Changing Times, Photoplay, High Fidelity, Billboard, Cash Box, Music City News, Collectibles, Kiplinger's, Woman's Day and Rolling Stone – to name just a few.

Jerry has been a frequent guest on many major radio and TV talk shows, discussing the record collecting hobby. Among these are: Good Morning America, The Today Show, The Nashville Network, and far too many local and regional shows to enumerate.

He worked in the mid-'80s as a technical advisor and consultant for the critically acclaimed ABC-TV nostalgic news-magazine program, Our World, and has served as a consultant for HBO, and CBS-TV's West 57th Street.

More recently, Jerry worked on the music segments of the ABC-TV prime time extravaganza, The Century, as well as MSNBC's nightly Headliners and Legends.

Clearly, no one person has been more responsible – directly or indirectly – for the amazing growth in the past quarter-century of the music collecting hobby.
